

Cabtite cable entry systems

Even more flexibility with the new frame solution: FrontTight

NEW

Time and space-saving cable entry now from the outside to the inside or the other way around

The Cabtite cable entry system makes cable management of assembled and non-assembled cables as flexible, reliable and efficient as possible. It speeds up installation, simplifies service, and reduces downtime.

Our well established modular system Cabtite is now supplemented by a new frame solution: Cabtite FrontTight. With FrontTight, cables can be routed from outside to inside through cabinet or enclosure walls, while the existing frame solution is designed for the installation from inside to outside. Just as with the existing frame solution, the cables are sealed and protected against tensile stress at the same time. A small wall cut-out in the enclosure is all that is needed. Now you are free to choose which frame is best for your application.

The whole Cabtite system consists of frames, snap-in inlays and sealing elements. It allows the quick configuration of the cable entry without any tool and with reliable IP66 sealing according to DIN EN 60529.

Your special advantages:

- Up to 50% space and time savings during installation compared to conventional cable glands
- Up to 30% cost savings compared to conventional cable glands
- Maintaining manufacturer's warranty of assembled cables
- Even more flexibility by new frame solution FrontTight: Fast installation and retrofitting of assembled and non-assembled cables now also possible from the outside to the inside
